

Close-up of cabbage from vegetable farm near Delhi. As global food demand rises, the future of farming will rely upon new technologies to make the agriculture industry more efficient, sustainable, and cost-effective.